THE LAW ABOLISHING SLAVERY. From Our Special Correspondent.

LAWRENCE, Jan. 29, 1858.

This law, which passed the House a week ago, has been delayed in the Council until to-day. After sundry amendments and reconsiderations of amendments, it has passed, and is now being engrossed. prior to presentation to his Denveric Excellency. That he will veto it is probable, and I may add, expected. In such a case it will pass over his veto, unless some lobby influence is brought to bear upon it in the Council. As it conflicts directly with the theory of the Dre 1 Scott decision, it will probably result in the first case under it being carried up before that body; that is, unless the Territorial Government is knocked into pi by the Lecompton swindle. Should it ever be carried before the august body at Washington, we shall learn whother the people of the Territories are to be permitted to "regulate their domestic in stitutions in their own way." Such an experiment will probably result in the utter and total demolition of the already suffering doctrine of "Squatter

Sovereignty."

As Act entitled "An Act to Abolish and Prohibit Slavery, &c."

Sacricos I. Be it enacted by the Governor and Legislative Assembly of the Territory of Kansas: Slavery and involuntary servicude in the said Territory is hereby forever abolished and prohibiled except for the punishment of crimes, whereof the party shall have been duly convicted.

Sec. 2. From The Coursier des Einte Unis.

The Brunswick (Mo.) Journal has the following:

"A stone mason named John Farris had resided in this city for some time. He was esteemed by every one for his industry and upright conduct. He married a young country girl, by whom he had several chil-dren. He built him a house, and lived in peace and comfort-for he could easily earn three dollars a day. "John Farris was a good Catholic, and one of the most zealous members of the little congregation in this place. He was supposed to be either an Irishman or Scotchman.

"What then was the surprise of all on learning that this honest workman and father of a family had just this honest workman and lather of a family had just been arrested on authority as a Fugiture Slave! "Certainly it never would have entered into the mind of any one, however close the scrutiny—espe-cially when his intelligence and estimable qualities were considered, that John Farris had African blood in his veins. But the Judges, to whom, without doubt, were furnished undisputed evidence of the former condition of the unfortunate man, surrendered him up to the Deputy Marshall of Alabama, and Farris was taken away to Slavery, leaving behind his wife and family and the little home, which, by long years of industry, he had reared.

"Farris is owned by a man named Raglan, residing in Alabama, from whom he escaped in 1852, and after many dramatic adventures took refuge in Pittaburg: but a man named Shaw, who had been sent out in pursuit, succeeded in discovering him, and the poor slave had to leave precipitately. It was then that he conceived the project of coming to Brunswick.

"The wife wished to follow the husband to Alabams, but, after much entreaty on his part, she consented, for her children's sake, to remain behind,

" Some friends of the unfortunate family subscribed $3,000, which they offered for the release of Farris,

SAFETY OF THE PARTY OF LIEUT. IVES .- AS appre hensions have recently been expressed in respect to the safety of Licut. Ives's party, we are happy to state that a letter just received in this city by the overland mail, from Dr. Newberry, surgeon of the ex-pedition, dated Fort Yuma. Dec. 25, mentions that the steamers Jesup and Colorado had come up the day be-fore, bringing letters from Lieut. Ives. He had ar-rived at the month of the river, Dec. 2, and was exrived at the mouth of the pected up in a couple of weeks.

MONDAY, Feb. 8-P. W.

The market opened with activity and some firmnes to-day, which was not maintained at the close in some descriptions. Still there were no very marked features in the operations, the irregularity being produced apparently by the absence of any combined movement on the part of the bull party. There was some disposition shown to make short sales, but the freedom with which they were taken cliecked the bears in operations. At the Second Board the changes were generally unimportant, but after the Second Board the Bank figures produced a better feeling and there was more disposition shown to operate at an advance on the closing prices. New-York Central exhibited less firmness to-day than of late, selling down to 81; at the close, however, it rallied and was 81] a 814; about 4 P cent better than on Saturday. Erie was well sustained, although not very active, and closed at 24] bid. The advices by the Arabia in regard to the lean are favorable. Mr. Moran hadgard to the loan are favorable. been in London three days and created a very good feeling by his representations. The friends of the road had held a preliminary meeting, and it is considered almost a certainty that the aid asked for in Europe will be obtained. Reading is among the few, active stocks which do not participate in the upward tendency of the market. It shows a decline of 1 $\div cent, closing a: 56\div 356\div. Sales of Philadelphia stock, and the dullness of the coal trade, probably caused this decline. On the other hand, Pennsylvania Coal is among the most buoyant stocks on the list, and advanced to 75?, an improvement of 3 P cent. There is a rumor in the street of an early dividend upon this stock. Pacific Steamship Co. continues to be affected by the opposition line of boats, which induces short sales. The cash stock opened at 61 and closed at 60, a decline of 1

La Croese improved | P cent and Lifencie Central | P cent. Panama continues to advance steadily and was in demand after the Board at 971, an advance of 21 * cent since Saturday. This selvance only brought out 100 shares. The Bond market was fairly active and strong, especially for Erie bonds, which advanced under the infinence of the foreign advices. State Stocks were also strong, excepting Virginias. The House vote on the Lecompton question added firmness to State Stocks after the Board.

There has been a fair business done in foreign exchange at about previous rates. If anything, the market is easier to buy. Good commercial sterling signa-tures have sold at 8] a 9 4 cent, and bank bills 9] a 9 2 F cent. Leading city drawers ask 92 210 F cent.

The Official Bank Averages for the week show, as was anticipated, a continued expansion of the loans, which are now as high as they were in the early part of October, and about nine millions larger than the low-est point touched during the contractions. The expansion has been, we think, mainly on stock loans, al though there has been a considerable amount of paper discounted for Southern and interior banks, which preparing for resumption, or have resumed. The offerings at Bank have been light, and many of these institutions have been unable to employ all their receipts in paper unless by going into the street to purchase st. Nearly the entire discounting of the Banks has been in the renewals. We can hear of but little new paper appearing, and the bulk of that which is offered is the result of the recent Dry Goods auction sales. The decrease in the specie reserve is considerably less than was generally anticipated after the very large foreign drain of last week and the loss to Boston and the South, which was supposed to have exceeded the amount received from the interior The nominal deposits show a large increase, but the gain in the actual balances is small. This result is due to the withdrawal of a considerable amount of bank balances. The comparison with last week is asfollows:

The London correspondent of The Commercial

"The course of the London money market has been extraordinary; first-class bills can now be discounted at 31, or even 3 $\Phi$ cent. Nevertheless the Bank rate is still kept at 5. There was a general expectation of a reduction yesterday to 4 $\Phi$ cent, but it will not take place till next week. Meanwhile the influx of gold is continuous and is not likely to be interrupted, since several large remittances are now due from Australia.

"Meetings of the creditors of houses that failed during the crisis are still being held and in too many cases the results are far from creditable. Public feeling, however, is now strongly aroused, and the practice of manufacturing accommodation bills is loudly denounced in every quarter—a strong wish even being expressed that it should be treated as felony.

"Suspensions have not altogether ceased nor are they likely to do so for some little time. It has been mentioned in recent advices that there were several weak concerns which must be expected to give up. Among the most recent instances has been Charles Walton & Sons, shipowners, who have stopped with liabilities equal to $425,000, and with bad prospects as regards assets. At Newcastle two old firms have succumbed, Mathew Plummer & Co., and Charles Plummer & Co., the latter connected with the flax trade. The property in hand, however, is alleged to be considerable."

At the January meeting of the Directors of the Ballimore and Ohio Railroad, a special Retrenchment Committee was appointed, with power to prune the ompany's pay rolls, with a view to the fullest reduction possible without crippling the service. That Committee have partially completed their important labors, and have, upon consultation with the officers of the oad, ordered the discharge of a number of employees at the various branches of the service, and the reduction of the pay of others. Beside these special acts, general order is said to have been adopted deducting 10 the centre of the pay of all officers and others who receive regular annual salaries above $500.

The Philadelphia Ledger says:

"We understand that the long-pending suit of the Bank of the United States against the Philadelphia, Wilmington and Baltimore Railroad Company, in which was claimed about $135,000, has been compromised, settled and discharged from the docket. The settlement is considered highly advantageous to the Company—removing, as it does, a claim for a very large sum by the comparatively small payment of about $20,000, at the same time dispersing a cloud which was regarded as threatening. The effect of this settlement will, no doubt, tend further to improve the credit of this Company—both the stock and shares of which have been looking up for the last two or three months."

"We learn that John H. Capen of Willimantic, who is reported to be a defaulter to the Satinet Warp Mill to the amount of $45,000, was a joint owner of the mill with Austin Dunham of this city and William L. Jillison of Willimantic. Mr. Capen was the business agent of the concern. The goods manufactured by the Company were satinet warps, for which there was a good demand as long as the price of cotton was low, and the concern then did a good business. For three years past, however, owing to the rise in cotton, the concern has been losing money, and Mr. Capen has aided it from time to time by furnishing a main share of the capital. The mill, we believe, has fallen much behind during the past six months, and it is now said that Capen has defaulted to the amount of $15,000. Full particulars of this case are yet to be obtained."

ment, for there is meither profit to our friends nor pleasure to us in the disposal.

The future of Cotton is clear before us; we have returned to moderate prices, and these will continue to rule. Speculation will not exist to any gest extent, for the framework is broken up for some time to come. Money may become cheaper yet, but, what is of far greater importance, credit will romain dear from the fearful disturbance of confidence more does there appear much probability of any great inducement for speculation. If we adopt the European consumption of the past year as the type for that of the present, and if we estimate the consumption of the United States at 200,000 bales, instead of 70,000 bales, which it appears will probably be the extent, we shall require a total of about 2,700,000 bales of American Cotton; this will be abundantly supplied even if the crop in the United States should eventually turn out to be only 3,000,000 bales, and if the East Indies should even send us 100,000 bales, which we are all emerging has been exclusively a commercial one; it has neither been produced by revolutions, wars, pestilence, nor famine; the burden and the losses have inget the masses of the population untouched, except in those districts where manufacturing industry has been temporarily interrupted. The springs of industry are unimpaired, and we may thus hope for a sater and a moderately good business during the opening year. The dream of universally high prices originating distantly in the fancled superabundance of gold, and in the idea that consumption had overtaken production, must be given up for the present until the warning cry of general prosperity is heard once more in the course of some years. It is rather a remarkable circumstance that the three different systems of circulating medium prevailing in the commercial world—the paper, the mixed, and the exclusively metallic—have been tried in quick succession, and that none of the mass efficient in preventing a crisis from degenerating into a panic.
